PLEASE READ INTERNET CAUTIONS

* * * * *

The internet is a wonderful tool to find information regarding diabetes. However, this material is uncensored. Check for disclaimers when visiting web-sites.

Be careful when purchasing products. For example, purchasing insulin and having it shipped by conventional methods may expose it to extreme cold or heat.

Before changing medications or insulin, consult with your healthcare provider.

Be cautious of vitamins, minerals, herbs and alternative medicines. Discuss any new information or products with your healthcare provider before trying them. Some of these substances may actually worsen your condition.

Many of these websites offer products that may not be supported by the American Diabetes Association.
